FREE Parent Training Events

Are you new to homeschooling and feeling overwhelmed? We want to help you succeed in your home education mission. Join us this summer as experienced homeschoolers present three-day training sessions for parents. Rather than taking a well-deserved break from school and all things educational, these experienced homeschoolers begin to travel across their regions and around the country to present three-day training sessions to reinforce the classical, Christian model.

What is a "practicum"?

1. A practicum is similar to an apprenticeship. Experienced homeschoolers model how to study and teach any subject using the classical tools of learning.
2. Parents practice, practice, practice what they have learned so that they will be able to implement their new skills at home.

Are you new to classical education? Our morning sessions will unpack the classical, Christian model and allow you to practice skills for learning alongside your children at home. Afternoon sessions will go in depth with particular subjects. In both sessions, parents will have opportunities to discuss new ideas and to practice their newfound skills.

Are you discouraged with your home school? Or, do you feel you could encourage others? In addition to providing a place to practice the teaching tools, our FREE one-day and three-day Parent Practicums equip our families across the nation each year with the encouragement and camaraderie they need to teach their children well. Each practicum is a place to connect, to question, to celebrate both failure and success, and to gain confidence in our ability to use the classical model to learn and to teach our children any subject.

While you learn, your children learn, too! Fun and affordable student camps are available for children (ages 0 to 12) while parents attend the practicum. Subjects vary according to location, and availability is limited. Check online for camp resources used at your local three-day Parent Practicum.
